This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PROJECTS.

The principal projects conducted by the Weather Bureau during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, were as follows, with approximate cost in each case. The cost of these projects has also been charged in each case against the group to which it pertains.

The general work of the Weather Bureau outside of Washington, except the construction of observatory buildings, was carried on under the authority contained in two appropriations, viz, "Salaries, Weather Bureau," from which all commissioned and temporary employees were paid, and "General expenses, Weather Bureau," from which all other expenses were paid. The commissioned employees were located at 206 stations, the majority of which served as centers for the prosecution of forecast, climatological, crop, river and flood work, etc., in the surrounding sections. The official in charge and the employees under him were engaged in the performance of the various lines of work that were carried on at each station. This work has been divided into projects, which are hereafter described. As an illustration: The official in charge of the station at New Orleans is in charge of the climatological work of the State of Louisiana, the forecasting of stages for the rivers within the State, the taking and recording of observations, the issuing of daily weather and temperature forecasts, the making of frost and cold-wave forecasts for several States, the dissemination of storm and hurricane warnings, the collection and dissemination of special meteorological crop observations, ocean meteorological observations, the printing and issuing of weather maps, bulletins, forecast cards, etc. All of this work is done by the official in charge and his corps of assistants, much of it being done simultaneously, the total time devoted to any one project varying from day to day according to existing weather conditions. The whole work is done in the same office, using the same furniture, stationery, and having a common expense for fuel, gas, electricity, etc. The work is so coordinated as to accomplish the greatest amount with the least expense, but the impracticability of determining an accurate cost of rent, gas, electricity, fuel, stationery, furniture, and other miscellaneous expenses, and the exact salary cost for each line of work is evident. The condition at New Orleans is typical of other stations. Therefore the cost indicated for each project has been approximated, but it is reasonably correct.

Eradication of Scabies in Sheep and Cattle.

This work was carried on principally in the range States and Territories, and at feeding stations and stock yards. It involves the inspection and dipping of large numbers of cattle and sheep, the issuance of certificates, and the supervision of transportation and cleaning of cars. The cost was $216,114.97 for salaries, $110,256.44 for traveling expenses, $7,021.31 for miscellaneous items—a total of $333,392.72.

It is carried on mainly in areas contiguous to the Texas fever quarantine line, and includes the inspection of cattle, the location of infected animals and premises, their reinspection, and their treatment, or supervision, or direction of same, with a view to freeing such areas of Texas fever ticks, in order that the quarantine may be removed therefrom. The cost was $101,844.88 for salaries, $45,102.39 for traveling expenses, $19,888.68 for supplies and miscellaneous items—a total of $166,765.95.

Special Investigations.

This work consists in the investigation of reported outbreaks of disease in the different States, and has for its purpose the repression of animal diseases by cooperation with the State authorities. The cost of this work was $1,908.34 for salaries, $1,697.10 for traveling expenses, $197.65 for miscellaneous expenses—a total of $3,803.09.

Inspection of Southern Cattle.

This work covers the enforcement of the quarantine against the area infested with ticks, which convey the disease generally known as Texas or southern fever, the supervision of the movement of cattle therefrom and of their transportation and handling in stock yards, and cleaning of cars in accordance with the regulations. The cost was $56,279.81 for salaries, $6,038.64 for traveling expenses, $3,687.09 for miscellaneous items—a total of $66,005.54.

Inspection of Animals for Export.

This work is carried on at the more important stock yards, ports on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, and at Canadian and Mexican border points, and includes, together with their inspection, the tuberculin testing of all breeding cattle and milch cows, and the mallein testing of horses for shipment to Canada, as well as the careful inspection of all sheep, swine, and goats. Only animals found to be healthy and free from disease and shown not to have been exposed to the contagion of any disease, and that are otherwise fit, are allowed shipment. An inspection likewise is made of the cars and boats carrying such animals to the ocean steamer to see that these are properly cleaned and disinfected, and of the steamer to see that it is properly fitted and spaced for carrying the different kinds of animals and equipped as prescribed by the Department regulations for the purpose. Certificates of export are issued for cattle and for the other different kinds of animals, including horses, intended for shipment to countries requiring certificates of inspection. Two inspectors are stationed in Great Britain for the purpose of observing and reporting on the condition of animals when they are landed. The cost of this work was $30,062.49 for salaries, $100.07 for traveling expenses, $1,514.43 for supplies and miscellaneous items—a total of $31,676.99.

Inspection of Imported Animals.

The object and purpose of this work is the prevention of the introduction of contagious animal diseases. For cattle, sheep, swine and goats a permit to import must first be obtained from the Secretary of Agriculture, and these animals must be accompanied by certificates of health from the proper officials of the district and country from which shipped. Cattle coming from Europe must likewise be accompanied by satisfactory tuberculin test charts by an inspector of this Department stationed in Great Britain, or they must be subjected to the tuberculin test while in quarantine. Canadian cattle are admitted if accompanied by a satisfactory tuberculin-test certificate issued by a Canadian official veterinarian, otherwise they are subjected to a short period of quarantine and the tuberculin test at the border. Horses are admitted on passing a satisfactory inspection by a Department veterinarian at the port of entry. The import work involves the inspection of animals imported from Mexico and Canada and through certain designated sea ports, at which animal quarantine stations are maintained, all ruminant animals and swine being subject to quarantine. The cost of this work was $26,659.33 for salaries, $4,827.72 for traveling expenses, $3,707.73 for supplies and miscellaneous items—a total of $35,194.78.

On irrigation extension.

Stations have been established and equipped in the semiarid region to determine the possibilities of irrigation on the plains where stream water is not available in connection with dry farming or stock raising. The work done includes the use of flood water in spring, the storage and use of storm water, pumping with different kinds of engines and windmills, and experiments in applying water by different methods to determine how the largest use can be made of the small supplies available.

DRAINAGE INVESTIGATIONS.

Arkansas: Ascertaining value of wet lands and outlining general plan for drainage; investigation of practicability of draining prairie lands by roadside ditches and improving natural channels to prevent overflow; assisting in the initiation of actual drainage constructions by giving advice in the formation of drainage districts and in the adoption of the best plans for doing the work 1,399.57

California: Investigations to determine the feasibility of drainage where water has to be removed by pumping, and the best system for collecting the water, and the best type of machinery for pumping the water where pumping is necessary 5,010.34

Colorado: Investigations to determine the best methods of draining lands in the San Luis and Arkansas valleys, where excess of water resulting from irrigation and accumulation of alkali threaten to result in the abandonment of large areas once under profitable cultivation 253.25

Florida: Investigation to determine the feasibility of draining the Everglades: the most feasible method and probable cost, and whether lands when drained will be suited to agriculture 4,766.75

Indiana: A survey of the Kankakee River channel and bordering areas and the preparation of a report outlining in detail plans for channel improvements and drainage construction whose completion will secure the freer discharge of the flood waters of the river and the more complete drainage and reclamation of the valuable agricultural lands of the Kankakee Valley 2,779.48

Kansas: A comprehensive examination and survey of the Neosho River and its contiguous agricultural bottom lands subject to drainage by overflow for the purpose of determining the best system of improvements to be inaugurated to control the river and protect the adjoining land, and to estimate the probable cost of the work proposed 5,510.32

Louisiana: Developing plans for drainage of an area of 15,000 acres near Collinston and making a general study of the possibilities of drainage throughout the low lands of the Mississippi Delta 480.92

Minnesota: Experiments to determine the feasibility of the use of tile drains in sections where severe winters obtain 488.08

Mississippi: Investigations to determine the feasibility and approximate cost of a main drainage system for 220,000 acres of land; these studies, including a determination of the practicability of cleaning out and enlarging natural but inadequate drainage outlets and a comparison of the advantages and cost of such work with the advantages and cost of providing new artificial outlets to relieve certain sections of surplus water 3,252.53

Nebraska: Investigation to determine the efficiency of tile drain in removing surplus water and thus assisting in the reclamation of waterlogged alkalied bottom land in the Platte River Valley 1,275.67

North Atlantic States: Investigations to determine the value of tidal marshes for agriculture and best methods of reclaiming same, including determination of system of diking to be adopted, methods of building same, methods of getting rid of the interior seepage water and of bringing soil into fit condition for agriculture	$831.12

South Carolina: Investigation of the drainage of river bottom land to determine whether tidal river land may be protected from the inflow of salt water and fitted for dry-land crops; examination into the conditions which affect the drainage of coast lands in general	5,761.78
Tennessee: Investigation to determine the kind and cost of improvements required for the protection of valley lands from creek overflow, and probable benefits accruing to landowners	439.83
Texas: Devising methods of drainage by means of which Gulf coast lands may be relieved of salt which has accumulated near the surface since irrigation began; plans for reclamation of bottom lands from overflow	341.27
Utah: Experiments and investigations to determine the possibility and profitableness of draining and reclaiming areas of land once under profitable cultivation by irrigation and subsequently injured or ruined by the accumulation of water and alkali; experiments to determine the most practicable materials available for use in constructing underdrains suitable for installation in the various soils found in different counties throughout the State	4,381.86
Washington: Preliminary plans and estimate of cost of reclaiming 30,000 acres of land by drainage; investigation of land injured by seepage and alkali and preparation of plans for their reclamation	2,175.96

The principal projects conducted by the Office of Public Roads during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, were as follows, with approximate cost in each case. The cost of these projects has also been charged in each case against the group to which it pertains.

Object-lesson roads: Work under this project was conducted in 12 States; a total of 200,711 square yards of road was completed, illustrating proper methods of construction of macadam, gravel, shell, earth, and sand-clay; the cost was $15,349.86 for salaries, $2,250.21 for traveling expenses, and $2,395 for freight, supplies, and miscellaneous expenses—a total of.... $19,995.07

Instruction in highway engineering: Under this project graduates of engineering schools are appointed after a competitive examination to the position of civil-engineer student for a period of one year, during which they receive special training in highway engineering, at the same time rendering service to the Office; this project also covers lectures at colleges; during the past year six of these students were appointed at $600 per annum; the cost was $3,494.99 for salaries, $1,298.39 for expenses—a total of..... 4,793.38

Testing road materials: During the past year 405 samples of road material were received from 41 States, Canada and England, and tests were made to determine their suitability for use in the construction of roads; the cost was $4,583.41 for salaries, $288.93 for supplies and miscellaneous expenses—a total of..... 4,872.34

Road mileage, revenues, and expenditures in 1904: During the past two years the Office has been conducting an investigation to ascertain the total road mileage in each of the States by counties, the percentage of roads improved, the revenues available for road work, and the total expenditures for such purposes during the year 1904; this project was completed at the close of the last fiscal year; the cost was $4,283.49 for salaries, $152.12 for expenses—a total of..... 4,435.61

Lectures, addresses, and papers: About 150 lectures were given throughout the United States on various subjects connected with road building; this work cost $1,845.82 for salaries, $1,810.71 for expenses—a total of.. 3,656.53

Special advice and inspection: This project covers all cases where road problems are personally investigated by representatives of this Office: about 40 assignments of this character were made during the last year; the cost was $1,289.16 for salaries, and $909.52 for expenses—a total of.. 2,198.68

Investigation of dust preventives: The general use of motor vehicles is proving destructive to macadam roads, except in the few instances where the roads have been treated in such manner as to prevent the formation of dust; an investigation has been conducted by this Office in the form of field and laboratory experiments with all known materials, which might prove suitable for this purpose, and all available information was secured as to the methods being followed in European countries; the cost was $1,222.20 for salaries, $236.51 for traveling expenses, $331.70 for materials and miscellaneous expenses—a total of.... 1,790.41

Inspection of rural-delivery roads: The Post-Office Department from time to time forwards to this Office a list of rural-route roads which are in bad condition; application forms and information are sent to the postmaster in charge of the bad roads complained of, and, when request is received at this Office, experts are sent to give advice and assistance necessary to enable local authorities to improve the roads; during the year such inspection and advice were given at eighteen places in eight States; the cost was $636.27 for salaries, $339.59 for expenses—a total of.. 969.86

Standardization of tests: A new impact machine was completed for testing the toughness of road-building rock, and specifications for determining the toughness of rocks were submitted to the American Society for Testing Materials and adopted; work was conducted with a view to standardizing all road-material tests; the cost for salaries was..... 396.67

Classification of road materials: A definite stage was reached in this project and a bulletin issued establishing the correlation of the physical properties and mineral composition of road materials; the cost for salaries was..... 600.00

Cooperation with Forest Service: An engineer of this Office made a thorough inspection of roads and trails in the Yellowstone Forest Reserve and submitted a report containing recommendations and estimates for a system of roads and trails in that reserve; the cost was $441.67 for salary, $368.85 for expenses—a total of	$810.52
Investigation of road materials in the several States: An investigation begun in Minnesota in January, 1907, was nearly completed at the close of the fiscal year; the cost was $112 for salary, $18.70 for expenses—a total of	130.70
Introduction of model systems of road construction, maintenance, and administration: Under this project an engineer is assigned to investigate roads, road materials, equipment, organization, administration, and draw up a report and working plan to secure the best possible results for future work; such investigation was completed in Santa Barbara County, Cal., a little after the close of the fiscal year, and a somewhat similar investigation was completed in McDowell County, W. Va.; the cost was $250.83 for salaries, $161.25 for expenses—a total of	412.08
Corrosion of iron and steel: An investigation conducted by Dr. A. S. Cushman to ascertain the causes for the corrosion of iron and steel has been remarkably successful; he demonstrated that the generally accepted theories regarding the oxidation of iron and steel are incorrect, and that by coating the surface of these metals with a strong oxidizing agent the rusting can be prevented; the importance of this discovery can not be overestimated; the cost was $799 for salary, $17.23 for expenses—a total of	816.23
The decomposition of rocks under the action of water: The study of the decomposing action of water on finely-ground rocks conducted by Doctor Cushman has also led to valuable results; the fact has been developed that a better bonded surface can be obtained by mixing rocks, such as limestones, with the more siliceous crystalline rocks; a method has been developed for extracting potash from feldspathic rocks; the cost was $1,108.33 for salary	1,108.33
Concrete and cement: The investigations under this project have been conducted at a cost for salaries of	278.00

Bulletin, macadam roads: A thoroughly practical and reliable bulletin was published at a cost for salary of $140 with expenses of $29.85—total of	169.85
Split-log drag: The introduction of the split-log drag for the maintenance of earth roads and the preparation of a bulletin on the subject cost, during the past year, for salary $198, for expenses $94.80—a total of	292.80
Digest of road laws: This work is very nearly complete; the cost for the past year was for salary	150.00

Total amount estimated	134,220.00

NOTE.—There is an increase in the salary of 1 solicitor from $3,500 to $4,500, to make it conform to the salaries paid to solicitors in other Departments; 1 chief clerk, from $2,500 to $3,000, being an increase of $500 for services as custodian of buildings, which is the same amount as paid to custodians of buildings in other Departments; 1 stenographer and executive clerk to the Secretary of Agriculture, from $2,000 to $2,200, and 1 appointment clerk from $2,000 to $2,200; total promotions, $1,900.

The following places have been added by transfer from the rolls of other bureaus, and the amounts have been deducted from the appropriations of those bureaus, viz: Two clerks class 2; 3 clerks, at $1,000 each, and 1 clerk, at $900; total transfers, $6,700. One cabinetmaker, at $1,100, has also been transferred from the "emergency roll" of the Secretary's office, at the same salary, but the appropriation has not been reduced, as the entire amount will be needed; therefore it is a new place at $1,100.

In rearranging the force of engineers, firemen, and watchmen for the new buildings, the following changes have been made, viz: One assistant engineer, at $1,100; 2 assistant engineers, at $1,000 each; 4 elevator conductors, at $720 each; 4 firemen, at $720 each, and one watchman, at $720, have been added, aggregating $9,580, and 1 fireman, who shall be steam fitter, at $900, 3 assistant firemen, at $720 each; 1 assistant fireman, at $600, and one assistant messenger or laborer at $600 have been dropped, aggregating $4,260, or a net increase of $5,320. To offset this the following places have been omitted from the rolls of the several bureaus which will be assigned quarters in the new buildings, and the appropriations of these bureaus have been reduced accordingly, viz: Two watchmen, at $720 each, and 1 watchman, at $600, in the Bureau of Plant Industry; 1 messenger, acting as fireman, $840; 1 fireman, at $720; 1 messenger, at $720, acting as watchman, and 1 skilled laborer, at $720, acting as watchman, in the Bureau of Animal Industry; and 1 fireman, at $840, and 2 watchmen, at $720 each, in the Bureau of Soils, aggregating $7,320, making a net reduction in force of $2,000 by removal to new buildings. Considering all the above increases in connection with the decreases made in the appropriations of the several bureaus, there is a net increase in the Secretary's roll of only $1,000, as follows:

Promotions on Secretary's roll		$1,900.00
Cabinetmaker (new place) on Secretary's roll		1,100.00
Transfer of clerks from bureaus		6,700.00
Watchmen and firemen added to Secretary's roll		9,580.00
Total		19,280.00

Places dropped from Secretary's roll	4,260.00
		18,280.00
Net increase		1,000.00

NOTE.—A slight rearrangement has been made in the above roll as re- ls laborers, charwomen, assistant messengers, etc., for the purpose of lifying the same. It involves no change in salary.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY—Continued.

The overflow of the Colorado River through the irrigation of ditches in the Imperial Valley filled the old Salton basin, 285 feet below sea level, to the depth of 80 feet, before it was brought under control by levees and headings.

The Salton Sea now presents a surface of 440 square miles to rapid evaporation in a very dry climate. The rate of recovery of the valuable submerged land is of vital importance. Engineers do not know how to estimate at all accurately the probable rate of evaporation.

The entire subject needs careful study, and the Salton Sea affords a unique opportunity to undertake to solve the evaporation problem, and this solution will be invaluable for future work in the arid and subarid regions of the country, especially in constructing reservoirs for irrigation purposes.

The evaporation and the rainfall are correlative factors in the supply of water for waterways and for farming generally, but meteorologists have heretofore been limited to the collection of rainfall data only, and there is a lack of knowledge regarding the losses by evaporation. It is one of the gaps in practical science greatly needing to be filled.

Exact knowledge of the character and magnitude of earth motions, known as earthquakes, is of vital importance to architects and the great structural engineers whose business it is to design and erect the enormous structures now so numerous in all our large cities. Any one of these modern buildings often houses a small city full of people, whose safety depends in such a great degree upon the power of the structure to resist the forces that may assail it. Earthquake-proof construction must be required, especially in great structures, even in regions which may seem to be immune, for it may be only a question of time when some readjustment of the earth's strata under long accumulating stresses may occur in seemingly the most stable regions, and an earthquake of greater or less severity be precipitated thereby. The data required by engineers and architects to enable them to properly handle the problems presented to them are, at present, very meager, vague, and indefinite.

Up to the present time no department of the Government has given special attention to the study of seismology, and especially to the establishment of stations or observatories for the registration of earthquake motions. That systematic study of this kind should be taken up by the Government has been the subject of special consideration by a committee of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and it has also been informally considered by representatives from the Geological Survey, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Smithsonian Institution, the Weather Bureau, and the Carnegie Institution. The resolutions resulting from the action of this committee were published in "Science" for May 24, 1907, and, among other things, recommends that the Government take up systematic seismic observations It is the opinion of the Geological Survey, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Carnegie Institution that the Weather Bureau, in view of its widely distributed stations manned with trained observers, should be equipped with the necessary instruments and undertake this important line of work at selected stations.

Tobacco investigations in Texas—W. M. Hinson and Otto Olson, experts:

The work in Texas was inaugurated by the Bureau of Soils about five years ago, having for its object the introduction of the culture of cigar-filler tobacco, by growing the product from imported Cuban seed. This part of the industry is now fairly well established, but the question of improving this filler tobacco by selection and breeding needs attention, because the yield is low and the quality uneven. The indications are that marked improvements can be easily obtained by the methods followed in Florida, and after the completion of the present year's work it is planned to reorganize the Texas investigations along the practical lines of breeding and selection, and the improvement of farm practice..... 6,000.00

(Amount allotted for fiscal year 1908, $5,000.)

Results: Improved strains of Cuban tobacco from Texas-grown seed has been found to produce about double the yield of crops grown from imported seed. The past season sufficient seed of these improved strains has been saved under bag to furnish all seed needed for planting the coming season.

The methods of fertilization best adapted to the production of the greatest yield of high quality of filler tobacco are being studied and experiments have been laid out for the coming season to determine the best combination of fertilizers and methods of culture to raise profitable crops.

(Increase of $1,000 for the extension of the work in Texas.)

Tobacco investigations in Virginia—E. H. Mathewson and W. W. Green, experts:

This work was begun by the Bureau of Soils in 1904, having for its object the improvement of dark and fire-cured tobaccos in the Appomattox region by better methods of crop rotation and farm practic . The Virginia Experiment Station cooperates in the conduct of the work, furnishing two assistants. The work is handled from the general standpoint of improving farm practice as a whole, rather than from the strict tobacco viewpoint. In addition to this work, experiments are to be inaugurated in the improvement of the tobaccos by selection and hybridization..... 5,000.00

Results: Very important results have been secured and the demonstrations are attracting wide attention. It has been shown that it is necessary to rotate the tobacco crop with other general farm crops, and that profitable yields of grass, wheat, and other crops can be secured in the tobacco fields, and the soil improved for the growing of tobacco. The results of experiments demonstrate that the use of much more intensive methods of culture are desirable. An increased and more intelligent use of fertilizers on limited areas will produce more profitable results than the present more extensive system of farm practice. Improved strains of Virginia tobaccos are being produced by seed selection and breeding.

(Increase of $1,000 for the continuance and normal growth of the work.)

(8) Tobacco investigations in Alabama—W. M. Hinson and W. B. Schrader, experts:
The work in Alabama is also a continuation of the investigations inaugurated in that State by the Bureau of Soils. At present about 225 acres of Cuban tobacco are being grown experimentally by farmers; and two experiments are being conducted in the production of shade Sumatra tobacco. The demand for the continuance and extension of this work in Alabama is very strong, and it should be continued at least for another season. The problems are very complicated and need to be taken up from the standpoint of the general cropping system and the adaptation and improvement of special types of tobacco to meet the particular requirements in the State. The situation in Alabama needs to be worked out slowly and with careful consideration of all of the problems involved, as an undue stimulation of the industry would be unwise..... $3,500.00
Results: Selections of seed of the best plants from the filler standpoint have been made, and will be distributed to the growers for next season's planting. The market for this tobacco has not been established as yet, and it is necessary to assist the growers in finding a market for their crops. Methods of fertilizing the soil, and curing and fermenting the tobacco are being investigated.

(9) Tobacco investigations in Ohio—Mr. Shamel, in cooperation with A. D. Selby, collaborator (botanist of the Ohio Experiment Station):
These investigations are conducted in cooperation with the Ohio Experiment Station, having for their object the improvement of the native tobaccos by hybridization and selection. The work taken over from the Bureau of Soils consists in the improvement of the methods of fermentation of the native tobaccos so as to reduce the amount of dry rot resulting from the old methods..... 2,000.00
Results: Good progress has already been made in the hybridization and selection work, which was only started a year or so ago. A large number of new types, hybrids, and improved strains of tobacco have been tested, some of which have been found to possess special merit for cigar filler production, giving a high yield per acre and possessing a desirable flavor and aroma. Several wrapper types also show merit and value for commercial propagation. The work of the Bureau of Soils in Ohio has been productive of very satisfactory results. The introduction of the bulk fermentation method has reduced the amount of rot considerably, but a further study of the question by a pathologist is necessary. The work on bulk fermentation was started by the Bureau of Soils in 1902, and in 1903–4 that Bureau also planted test crops of tobacco, the product being fermented and packed by its experts and samples sent to the trade. The improved methods of saving and separating seed have been introduced and are now in general use by tobacco growers.

(10) Tobacco investigations in New York—G. W. Harris, expert:
The work in New York, like that in Virginia, Alabama, and Texas, is a continuation of experiments started by the Bureau of Soils. These are located in Onondaga County, where the tobacco grown is the same as that grown in the Connecticut Valley. The New York product, however, has deteriorated during recent years in quality and price, owing either to the fact that the crop is not planted on the right kind of soil for the production of good wrapper, or to a lack of knowledge in the application of fertilizers and the general handling of the crop. The object of the experiments is to determine the cause of the difficulty and to correct it.. $2,000.00
Results: The work so far has shown that there is much room for improvement both in cultural methods and in the types of tobacco grown. It is believed that the improved Connecticut strains will also do well in New York, and a considerable quantity of improved seed grown in experimental plots has been saved for distribution to the growers the coming season. The introduction of the bulk methods of fermentation is being successfully carried on.

(11) Tobacco investigations in California—J. B. Stewart, expert:
The work in California has so far consisted merely in a preliminary experiment to demonstrate, either positively or negatively, whether good cigar-filler tobacco can be profitably produced in that State. On account of the dry climate the problem is a complicated one. The State of California has appropriated $1,000 for augmenting the work, to be expended under the direction of the Department. Only a small acreage has been planted and the work so far is strictly preliminary. The fermentation of this year's experimental crop will be supervised by one of the Department's experts... 1,000.00
(Amount allotted for fiscal year 1908, $1,000.)
Results: Owing to the preliminary nature of the work a definite statement or prediction of results is not practicable at the present time.

market, and such information and data concerning the handling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point as will aid in the establishment of definite and honest grades..... $5,000.00
(Amount alloted for fiscal year 1908, $4,800.)
Results: This laboratory is especially important as representing grain in the hard spring wheat growing section of the Northwest, and was opened for business about October 1 of this year. About 300 samples have been submitted to and analyzed by this laboratory. Considerable information and data have been collected relating to the handling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point, especially with reference to what is known as the dockage system. Grain standardization laboratory, Minneapolis, Minn.—L. A. Fitz, assistant:
The work in this laboratory is practically similar to that of the Baltimore laboratory previously described. The laboratory was established at this point for the reason that it is one of the principal milling and distributing points for the hard spring wheats grown in the northwest section, and at which point the Department has excellent facilities for studying the milling of these wheats. The aim is to secure samples of grain passing through the market and into the mills at Minneapolis, and such information and data concerning the handling, milling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point as will aid in the establishment of definite and honest grades..... 5,000.00
Results: This laboratory is especially important as representing the milling and marketing of grain in the hard spring wheat growing section of the Northwest, and was opened for business October 1 of this year. About 300 samples have been submitted to and analyzed by this laboratory. Considerable information and data have been collected relating to the milling, handling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point, especially with reference to what is known as the dockage system in connection with its value from the miller's point of view.
(Increase of $200 for additional apparatus, elaborating the work and extending the facilities of the laboratory.)

Grain standardization laboratory, St. Louis, Mo.—W. P. Carroll, assistant:
The work in this laboratory is practically similar to that of the Baltimore laboratory previously described. The laboratory was established at this point for the reason that it is one of the principal distributing and milling points for the hard and soft winter wheats grown in the Middle Northwest section. There is also much grain, including corn, shipped from this point to the Gulf ports for export, and at this point the Department has excellent facilities for studying these features. The aim is to secure samples of grain passing through the market and into the mills at this point and such information and data concerning the handling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point as will aid in the establishment of definite and honest grades..... $5,000.00

Results: This laboratory is especially important as representing the hard and soft red winter wheats and corn grown in the Middle West section and was opened for business about September 15 of this year. About 400 samples have been submitted to and analyzed by this laboratory. Considerable information and data have been collected relating to the handling, milling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point, especially with reference to the milling of wheats grown in this section, and the shipment of corn to ports on the Gulf of Mexico for export.

(Increase of $200 for additional apparatus, elaborating the work, and extending the facilities of the laboratory.)

(8) Grain standardization laboratory, New York, N. Y.—C. E. Leigthy, assistant:

The work at this laboratory is to be practically similar to that of the Baltimore laboratory, previously described. The laboratory was established at this point for the reason that it is the largest export market for cereal grains in the United States, besides being a North Atlantic port, at which point the Department will have excellent facilities for studying all classes of commercial grains in connection with the climatic conditions of the North Atlantic coast, and to collect such information and data concerning the handling, shipping, storing, and inspecting of grain at this point as will aid in the establishment of definite and honest grades..... 5,000.00

Results: This laboratory has not yet been opened for business on account of the new customhouse at this point, in which the laboratory is to be located, not having been finished, and it is hoped to open it early in the year, when it will be especially important as representing all kinds of cereal grains handled at a North Atlantic seaport.

(Increase of $500 for additional apparatus, elaborating the work, and extending the facilities of the laboratory.)

(9) Grain standardization laboratory, Buffalo, N. Y.:

The work to be essentially the same as at the other laboratories. At this point the Department would have especially good opportunities for studying the handling, shipping, storing, distributing, and inspecting of grain at one of the largest interior distributing points for same in the United States, where practically all kinds and classes of grain grown in the United States and Canada are concentrated. The Buffalo Corn Exchange has urged the establishment of this laboratory..... 3,700.00

(10) Grain standardization laboratory, Chicago, Ill.: The work to be essentially the same as at the other laboratories now established. It is desired to place a laboratory at this point for the reason that it is the largest primary grain market in the world; consequently, the Department will have especially good facilities for studying questions in connection with the grain business generally. The Chicago Board of Trade has urged the establishment of this laboratory	$3,600.00
(11) Grain standardization laboratory, Kansas City, Mo.: The work to be essentially the same as at the other laboratories now established. It is desired to establish a laboratory at this point for the reason that it is the largest primary market for hard red winter wheat, and the Department will have especially good facilities for studying this wheat and the methods of handling it. The Kansas City Board of Trade has urged the establishment of this laboratory	3,200.00
(12) Grain standardization laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa.: The work to be essentially the same as at the other laboratories now established. It is desired to establish a laboratory at this point, which is neither a northern nor a southern Atlantic port, and from which large quantities of corn are exported annually. The Department will have good opportunities to study the export of corn, and the weather conditions affecting it as compared with New York, Baltimore, and New Orleans. The Philadelphia Commercial Exchange has urged the establishment of this laboratory	3,200.00
(13) Grain and flour testing laboratory: This laboratory is desired for the reason that it is believed that it will be of great benefit and value to the millers of wheat and other cereals in this country, and that it will be important in fixing the manufacturing and milling values of the cereal grains grown in the United States. It is important that careful investigations be made of the bread-making value of wheats as there are many factors that enter into these values, upon which very little scientific work has been done, and it is essential that these be worked out in connection with the establishment of United States standards for grain grades	7,500.00

During the fiscal year 1909, it is proposed to establish one new project. At present it seems that the Chadron project is the one most urgently demanded, as the sand-hills district of northern Nebraska and southern South Dakota is not represented in our present scheme. It may be, however, that it will prove even more desirable to establish a station in Oklahoma, New Mexico, or the southern Panhandle of Texas. Wherever established, the work will be substantially the same as the projects already established. The amount necessary to inaugurate work on a new project will be..... 1,966.00

Scattering groves of these plants in America have demonstrated that they will grow in the United States. To prove that they can be grown profitably on land that is not now occupied by crops, such as the "cane brake" lands of the South, is the object of this project. The uses in this country to which bamboos can be put are also being studied, and it is probable that in cooperage, as temporary irrigation pipes, for screens, for vine stalks, for many kinds of furniture, for bean poles, for light handles for orchard tools, etc., they are to play an important part in this country, as they do in all countries where they are grown	1,730.00
(Amount allotted for fiscal year 1908, $1,730.)
Results: Early introductions into our plant garden have been growing successfully, and an explorer has been appointed to get up a shipment of the best timber forms and import them the coming spring. Hardier forms than the Japanese have been found in China, drought-resisting forms are ordered from India, and the tropical giant forms are requested by the planters in Porto Rico.

OFFICE OF CHAIRMAN OF BUILDING COMMITTEE.

No regular estimate for the fiscal year 1909.

The funds for completing the two segments of the new building now in course of construction have been appropriated and made available, aggregating $1,500,000.

A separate estimate for the central or administrative segment of the building is to be submitted to the Sixtieth Congress.

PROGRESS OF THE WORK.

[From Eleventh Annual Report of the Secretary of Agriculture, November 23, 1907.]

The work on the new building for the Department has progressed satisfactorily during the year, and it is hoped to occupy the new quarters within the next month or two. As pointed out in my last report, in considering the question of a building, the imperative need for suitable laboratories to carry on the important investigations of the various bureaus and fireproof space for the library was recognized as paramount. The greater part of the indoor work of the Department is conducted in laboratories; hence the absolute necessity for structures that would be well lighted, well ventilated, fireproof, and otherwise well adapted for the purpose. To accomplish these several objects and at the same time to secure opportunities for continued enlargement, the building has been arranged so that extensions could be made in segments as the work required

When the act authorizing the building was passed we could not foresee the rapid growth, by Congressional action, of the Department. On February 3, 1903, when the work was authorized, there were in Washington 1,100 persons employed in the Department of Agriculture. At the present time there are over 2,100—almost double the number on the date when the appropriation was made.

While the original appropriation was so expended as to secure the greatest possible amount of floor space, this floor space is now totally inadequate to care for the increase of almost 100 per cent in the number of employees. Full arrangements have been worked out for the occupancy of the present segments and the relinquishment of the several buildings for which rent is now being paid. The work will be completed within the appropriation made by Congress.

Soil survey.

The demand for soil-survey work is very great. There are now on file in the Bureau of Soils requests for the survey of nearly 400 different areas in the various States and Territories. The requests for this work are sent to the Bureau as petitions from citizens of different counties, from boards of trade, from chambers of commerce of cities located in prominent agricultural districts, from experiment stations, from large development companies, from railroads to aid in their development work, from horticultural societies, from State departments of agriculture, State geological surveys, and from various other sources.

With the present appropriation the Bureau averages about 40 areas each year, so that with its present force it would require nearly ten years to complete the surveys for which applications are now on file. The following distribution of the work, based upon the estimates submitted by the Secretary of Agriculture, is contemplated for the fiscal year 1909.

Administration:
Salaries	$4,800.00
Traveling expenses	500.00
	5,300.00
Inspection and correlation:
Salaries	2,000.00
Traveling expenses	1,000.00
	3,000.00

Reconnoissance surveys.

Appalachian fruit belt: Work contemplated here is taken up under soil utilization.

Abandoned farms: Work contemplated here is taken up under soil utilization.

Cotton soils: Work contemplated here is taken up under soil utilization.

Piedmont plateau: Work contemplated here is taken up under soil utilization.

Special surveys, experiment station farms: This work will be continued during the fiscal year 1909, and, as opportunity permits, detailed soil surveys on a scale of 1 inch to the acre will be made of the experiment station farms in the United States.

County and areal surveys.

The actual selection of areas to be surveyed is finally decided in September for the fall and winter assignments of the field parties, and in February for the spring and summer assignments, and the exact areas to be surveyed in the fiscal year 1909 and the estimated cost of each can not be stated prior to the actual assignments. The estimated expenditures to be made and the approximate number of square miles in each of the grand divisions of the United States, based upon the work done in 1907 and in previous years, and the applications now on file in the Bureau, are as follows:

North Atlantic Division: There are on file in the Bureau of Soils 22 requests for soil surveys in this division, aggregating over 10,000 square miles. With due regard to requests from other sections of the country, and the estimates of appropriations, 10 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909, covering an aggregate area of 3,150 square miles, at an estimated cost of—

Field expenses	3,906.00
Total	11,718.00

The proposed distribution of this work and the agricultural interests which will be served are as follows:

New Hampshire.—Two requests are on file for soil surveys in this State, to furnish information regarding the soils and their adaptation to crops in connection with the investigations of the abandoned farm situation, which this Bureau has been studying in cooperation with the New Hampshire Experiment Station. In the interest of the work of rejuvenating the farming industry of that State, which has been rapidly pushed forward, the survey of at least one of these areas should be undertaken during the fiscal year 1909.

New York.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 11 different areas in this State. These petitions come from grange associations of various counties, the horticultural department of Cornell University, the New York State department of agriculture, and from other sources. The character of these requests indicates the need of this work in the development of the truck, hop, alfalfa, tobacco, and fruit interests, as well as of the dairying and other special industries of the State. At least 3 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

Maine.—The Maine Agricultural Experiment Station has requested a survey in Aroostook County, where the soils are largely devoted to potato culture, and it is highly desirable that such a survey should be made during the fiscal year 1909.

New Jersey.—One request is on file for soil-survey work in this State, the object being to show the agricultural possibilities of large areas of overflowed land now being reclaimed by the State.

Rhode Island.—A soil survey of the entire State has been completed.

Pennsylvania.—Requests and petitions are on file for the soil survey of 5 areas in this State. These have been submitted by agricultural associations, the experiment stations, and individuals. The most urgent requests appear to be from the fruit interests, which are rapidly spreading into the mountains and high-plateau section of the State. It is desired that reliable information be furnished as to the adaptation of the soil to the different varieties of fruit. These requests in the interest of fruit culture are not confined to particular counties, but are for large areas, covering a considerable portion of the State. Tobacco and general farming interests are also represented. It is desirable that at least 3 areas be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

South Atlantic Division: There are on file 103 requests for soil surveys in this important division, aggregating over 50,000 square miles. With due regard to requests from other sections of the country and the estimates of appropriations, 14 areas, covering an aggregate area of 4,900 square miles, should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

The estimated cost of this work is:

Salaries	$12,152.00
Field expenses	6,076.00
Total	18,228.00

The proposed distribution of these surveys and the agricultural interests which will be served are as follows:

Florida.—Requests are on file from State officials, farmers, officials of various county school boards, railroad interests, and agricultural societies, asking for the soil survey of 13 areas in this State. At least two areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Maryland.—There are on file requests from the State geological survey and the State board of immigration for a soil survey of 3 areas in this State. It appears that at least 2 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909; 1 in the Coastal Plain region, in the interest of the truck growers, and 1 in the northern central part of the State, where general farming is practiced and where the type of farming is changing to conform with developments in other parts of the country.

North Carolina.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 15 areas in this State. These requests come from development companies, bankers, railroads, farmers' associations, the State department of agriculture, the State geological survey, and include as well petitions from leading citizens and farmers. The State department of agriculture is cooperating in this work in a very efficient manner, and at least 2 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Georgia.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 19 areas in this State. They have been submitted by the colonization departments of several of the large railroads, influential citizens, and State officials of various counties, the district agricultural school authorities, and from large corporations interested in the production of high-grade cigar tobacco. The interests involved represent fruit, truck, tobacco, cotton, dairying, and general farming. At least 2 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

South Carolina.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 19 areas in this State. The requests come from the experiment station, chambers of commerce, citizens' associations, railroads, and others interested in the development of the agricultural and soil resources of the State. It is desirable that at least 2 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Virginia.—Requests and petitions are on file for a soil survey of 24 areas in this State. These requests are made in the interest of truck growers, fruit growers, tobacco growers, and those engaged in general farming. The requests come from county organizations, farmers' organizations, boards of supervisors, business men's associations, the experiment station, lumber companies, railroads, and other organizations, as well as from individuals interested in the greater development of the soil resources of the State. The survey of at least 2 areas should be made during the fiscal year 1909.

Owing to the great interest in agricultural development in Virginia, and the urgency of the requests for information regarding the soils, their treatment, and crop adaptations, this amount of work is wholly inadequate, but is probably the best that can be done with justice to similar demands for work in other States.

West Virginia.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 10 areas in this State. The petitions come from farmers' associations, large landowners, and loan companies who desire information regarding the agricultural possibilities of various sections of the State, and from the State geological survey, which organization is closely and efficiently cooperating with the Bureau. At least 2 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909, to provide information for the development of agricultural interests, particularly of the fruit interests, which are rapidly becoming more important.

North Central Division: There are on file requests and petitions for the soil survey of 85 areas in this division, aggregating over 43,000 square miles. With due regard to requests from other sections of the country, and the estimates of appropriations, 12 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909. These will cover an aggregate area of 6,200 square miles at an estimated cost of—

Salaries	$10,416.00
Field expenses	5,208.00
Total	15,624.00

The proposed distribution of this work and the agricultural interests which will be served are as follows:

Indiana.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 12 areas in this State. These requests are from county organizations and leading citizens and farmers. They have particular reference to the unproductive soils of certain portions of the State and to the use of marsh lands now being reclaimed, upon which trouble is experienced in growing agricultural crops. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Illinois.—Requests and petitions for the soil survey of five areas in this State have been received from leading citizens, county officials, bank associations, and railroad interests.

Kansas.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These are made by investment and loan companies, by citizens, and by the State university. At least 2 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

Michigan.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 11 areas in this State. These requests are made by horticultural associations, paper companies owning large tracts of pine lands which are being cut over, large iron companies, the State geological survey, and by others who are interested in the extension of the sugar-beet industry. At least one county should be surveyed in the interest of the sugar-beet growers during the fiscal year 1909.

Minnesota.—Requests are on file for the extension of the soil survey to cover four additional areas in this State. These requests come from the experiment station, county associations, commercial clubs, and from the State engineering department. The objects involved are particularly the utilization, agricultural value, and mode of treatment of vast areas of overflow and swamp lands now being reclaimed, and the further development of areas suited to the farm crops and to certain special industries. At least one area should be surveyed to aid in determining the crop adaptation of reclaimed swamp lands, as this seems to be one of the most difficult questions with which the citizens of the State have to deal.

Iowa.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 6 areas in this State. These are in the form of petitions from leading citizens and landowners, representing particularly the sugar-beet industry, the work being desired to show the extension of soils best suited to this crop. At least 1 area should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

Missouri.—There are on file requests from the State geological department, the State experiment station, and petitions from leading citizens of various counties, asking that surveys be made in 12 different areas in this State. It is desirable that at least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909, and this should be selected to serve the interests of the fruit industry, which is rapidly developing to large proportions.

Nebraska.—Petitions and requests received from leading citizens, county officials, farmers' clubs, the State experiment station, and the State university asking for the soil survey of 15 areas in this State. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909, in the north-central part of the State, where as yet no detailed soil survey has been made and little is known of the soils or their crop adaptations.

North Dakota.—Requests and petitions are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These have been submitted by citizens' associations, by railroad interests, and by the State agricultural and economic survey. The State is cooperating in a very efficient manner in this work, and at least 2 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

While many more requests are on file from some other States, perhaps nowhere is the value and practical importance of the soil survey more fully realized than in some of the sparsely settled areas in North Dakota. New lands are being taken up for agriculture with little experience to guide the farmers as to the character and treatment of their lands, or as to the crops which can best be grown. The districts are now being rapidly settled and it is important that tese httlers make as few mistakes as possible, and that the necessity for empirical experiment be reduced to a minimum.

Ohio.—Requests, supported by petitions from landowners and grangers, are on file for the soil survey of 3 areas in this State. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Wisconsin.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 9 areas in this State. These have come from companies and individuals owning large tracts of swamp lands which are being reclaimed and upon which it is difficult to establish agricultural crops; also from those interested in the development of the cut-over timber lands, in the question of vegetable growing for the Chicago market, and in the extension of dairying. At least 1 area, looking to the utilization of the vast section of cut-over pine lands, should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

South Central Division: There are on file in the Bureau of Soils requests for the survey of 134 areas, aggregating over 67,000 square miles. With due regard to requests from other sections of the country and the estimates of appropriations, 17 areas should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909. These will cover an aggregate area of 6,800 square miles, at an estimated cost of—

Salaries	$14,759.00
Field expenses	7,375.00
Total	22,134.00

The proposed distribution of this work and the agricultural interests which will be served are as follows:

Alabama.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 27 areas in this State. These requests are supported by petitions of farmers, county agricultural societies, colonization departments of various railroads, lumber companies, the officials of recently established high schools, and by State officials.

The State legislature has appropriated $10,000 annually for four years to be used in cooperation with and under the advice and direction of the Bureau of Soils, with a view to hastening the completion of the soil survey of the entire State. With this fund, supplemented by what the Bureau can reasonably be expected to expend, it is estimated that the work in this State can be finished in about five and a half years. At least 6 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909, the State paying approximately one-half of the cost of the work.

Kentucky.—Requests and petitions from leading citizens and landowners are on file for the soil survey of 2 areas in this State.

Arkansas.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 18 areas in this State. These come as petitions from farmers, boards of trade, county officials, colonization departments of railroads, lumber companies, horticultural interests, and the experiment station. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Oklahoma.—Requests are on file for the soil survey of 6 areas in this State. These are in the form of petitions from farmers' unions, county officials, and the State board of agriculture. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Louisiana.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 5 areas. These carry the indorsement of the experiment station, the State geological survey, railroad interests, and farmers' organizations. At least 2 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

Mississippi.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 9 areas in this State. These applications are supported by petitions from farmers, commercial clubs, boards of trade, and various railroad interests. At least 2 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

Tennessee.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 21 areas in this State, coming from business men's leagues, large landowners, from citizens from all parts of the State, and from the experiment station. The interests represented are fruit, in the eastern part of the State; tobacco and general farm crops, in the central part; cotton and associated crops, in the western part, and the development of the barrens in the highland rim. At least two areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909. The petitions supporting these requests are numerous and particularly strong and urgent.

Texas.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 46 areas in this State. These petitions are from farmers' organizations, rice, tobacco, and truck associations, irrigation companies, educational institutions, boards of trade, chambers of commerce, and the colonization departments of various railroads, all seeking information and guidance in the great agricultural development taking place in the State. At least 3 areas should be surveyed in this State during the fiscal year 1909, although from the numerous urgent requests much more work should be done immediately if it can possibly be arranged. The State is so large and the interests so numerous and settlement so rapid that at least 6 soil-survey parties should be continuously at work in Texas.

Western Division: There are on file in the Bureau of Soils, requests for the soil survey of 50 areas aggregating over 25,000 square miles. With due regard to requests from other sections of the country and the estimates of appropriations, 8 areas, covering an aggregate area of 2,400 square miles, should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909, at an estimated cost of—

Salaries	$6,944.00
Field expenses	3,472.00
Total	10,416.00

The proposed distribution of this work and the agricultural interests which will be served are as follows:

California.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 25 areas in this State. These applications are from chambers of commerce, development associations, irrigation companies, State water and forest associations, horticultural societies, sugar-beet interests, viticultural interests, superintendents of public schools, State officials, colonization departments of railroads, boards of supervisors, and various other interests concerned in the further development of existing agricultural industries, in the reclamation of alkali and swamp lands, in the breaking up of large holdings, and in the extension of agriculture into unoccupied areas. The survey of at least 3 areas should be made in this State during the fiscal year 1909.

The demand for soil survey work in this State is very large and very urgent, and much more work should be done than can possibly be accomplished with present appropriations, giving due consideration to the demands from other sections of the country.

Washington.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 3 areas in this State. These are in the form of petitions from farmers, requests from irrigation and lumber companies, and others interested in the development of large tracts of land now ready for settlement, or being rapidly cut over, and soon to be opened up for agriculture. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Colorado.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These are supported by petitions from leading farmers and fruit growers, chambers of commerce, irrigation companies, and sugar-beet interests. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909. Taking everything into consideration, it seems advisable to place the survey where it may assist in the development of the important fruit growing interest.

Idaho.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These are supported by farmers' petitions and by requests from irrigation companies and the experiment station. To aid in the agricultural development taking place under the extension of new irrigation systems, at least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Montana.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These are requests made by irrigation companies, the colonization departments of railroads, and the United States Reclamation Service. One area in this State should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Nevada.—Informal requests have been made by the colonization department of a new railroad traversing the southern section of the State, for the survey of several different areas in southern Nevada.

New Mexico.—A petition is on file made by a chamber of commerce, also informal requests from officials of the experiment station for a soil survey of the Mesilla Valley.

Oregon.—Applications are on file for the soil survey of 4 areas in this State. These are supported by petitions of leading citizens, particularly in the interest of the development of the fruit industry. At least 1 area should be surveyed during the fiscal year 1909.

Utah.—Applications, submitted by irrigation companies, sugar-beet companies, and the colonization departments of railroads, are on file requesting the soil survey of 3 areas in this State.

Wyoming.—Several informal requests have been made for soil surveys in different sections of the State.

Soil utilization.

This project provides for the following up of the soil-survey work by men who are familiar with the soils of the United States, their adaptation to crops, and the highest possibilities of their utilization. In the conduct of the soil-survey work a great deal of information is obtained, and opportunities are seen for improvement of the soil conditions and the crops grown on these soils. During the survey, however, the men have their duties to perform and can not stop to give the necessary advice or instruction to the farmers, and there is no way to obtain such instruction except as it appears in the report upon the soils of the area, issued later. These reports, like other published matter from this and other departments of the Government, are read and too often laid aside unacted upon, and in order to obtain the full benefit of the soil survey it has been found advisable to send men back to many of the areas that have been surveyed, to reside awhile in the area, meet the people, and finally to interest them in changing and improving the methods of utilizing their soils. This is one of the most promising, as it is one of the most practical, lines of work that the Bureau has undertaken, and great good has been done in the localities where such work has been carried on.

Adaptation of types of soils to varieties of fruit in the Appalachian Fruit Belt.
This investigation includes a field study of the soils of the Appalachian Fruit Belt, which extends from the State of New York in a southwesterly direction into Alabama. The object of the work is to ascertain the classes of fruits, and the varieties of each, best adapted to the different soils occurring throughout this region. It has for its purpose a better understanding of the adaptation of soils to fruits, with the ultimate object of advising fruitgrowers with reference to the location of orchard sites.

Adaptation of soils in California to varieties of grapes and of citrus and deciduous fruits:

This work involves a thorough study of the soils of California, for the purpose of ascertaining the soil types best adapted to the production of the different varieties of deciduous and citrus fruits and grapes. The object of the work is to advise with planters regarding the location of sites for these various classes of fruits. Large tracts previously used for the extensive cultivation of wheat are being subdivided for fruit growing, and the experience of the Bureau can be safely relied upon for direction as to the kinds of fruits which may be safely grown on the different soils. Also it is the experience of farmers that the character of the soil has much to do with the color and keeping quality of the fruit, and to the production of grapes for different kinds of wine, raisins, and table purposes. This information is desired by the growers as an aid in the further development of the valuable industries of the State.

Investigation of the adaptation of soils to crops in Texas:

This investigation involves a study of the general soil formations of the State of Texas, together with a study of the general crop adaptation of these formations. It has for one of its objects the introduction of the study of soils in the schools of the State, as a basis for a more thorough agricultural instruction, which it is proposed to introduce in the public schools. It is further intended to acquire a general knowledge of the soil conditions and crop adaptations in advance of the detailed soil surveys for the information of prospective settlers in an area now sparsely settled, but which is rapidly developing.

Investigation of the adaptation of the soils of middle Tennessee for the introduction of special crops, and the fuller utilization of the so-called barrens:

This work involves a field study of the crop adaptation of the principal soil types of the above-mentioned district, together with investigation of the best crop rotations and cultural methods for the principal crops grown, and includes also the introduction of new crops, especially fruits to which some soil types of the highland rim and so-called barrens are evidently adapted. It has for its object the utilization of considerable areas of land which have but recently been cleared of their forest growth, together with the necessary demonstrations and advisory work required to assist the farmers of the regions.

Investigation of the adaptation of soils to different varieties of cotton in the Gulf Coast States:
This work has for its object a specific knowledge of the varieties of cotton best adapted to the various soil types occurring throughout the principal cotton-growing districts of the Gulf Coast States, and includes such demonstrations and advisory work as will make this knowledge of the most practical value to the cotton planters in general. It is already known that the cotton selected or bred for a rich bottom-land soil is not as well adapted to the sandy uplands and, with the numerous varieties of cotton extant, it is desired to work out the proper utilization of each of the great soil types for the specific varieties of cotton adapted to them.
Salaries	$1,400.00

Investigation of the adaptation of certain soils in the Gulf States for alfalfa and other forage crops:
This investigation involves a study of the types of soil best adapted to the production of alfalfa and other leguminous forage crops. One of the most important needs of the South is more forage for the work stock. It has recently been shown that alfalfa does particularly well on the Houston soils, and that some of the other leguminous crops and sorghum do particularly well on o her types of soils. It is proposed to make a thorough investigation of the possibility of utilizing some of the important types of soil for the special production of forage crops.

Reclamation of alkali lands.

The investigation of alkali lands and of the methods for preventing the accumulation of alkali, and the reclaiming of such lands, where affected with excessive accumulations of alkali salts, had proceeded to such a point of completeness at the end of the fiscal year 1907 as to show the practicability of handling and reclaiming important types of such soil under different local conditions and for different types of alkali. It therefore seemed advisable to discontinue such investigations. All matters of advice and farm demonstration pertaining thereto will hereafter be handled by the Division of Soil Utilization. The subject, therefore is not included in the division of projects in the estimates for 1909.

Tobacco investigations.

The investigations, following the soil survey, of the possibility of producing a Sumatra type of cigar-wrapper leaf on certain soils in the Connecticut Valley and of Cuban filler leaf on the Orangeburg soils in the Gulf Coast States, and of the introduction of new types of tobacco and the improvement of tobaccos on certain soils in Virginia, Ohio, and New York, having been successfully completed, so far as the soil possibilities are concerned, further investigations under this head were suspended at the close of the fiscal year 1907. The cultural side of the work was turned over to the Bureau of Plant Industry for further investigations of the possibility of improving the crop through selection of seed and the establishment of a more permanent type of leaf, while the Bureau of Soils will continue the investigation and survey of tobacco soils under the Division of the Soil Survey.

Soil fertility investigations.

Investigation of the maintenance of soil fertility: Salaries	$3,750.00

Laboratory investigations.

Physical soil investigations, including:

(a) Conservation of soil moisture.

(b) Relation of cultural methods to physical condition of soils. The object of this work is to study the effect of cultural methods on the granulation, water-holding power, drainage conditions, ease of root penetration, and evaporation, and conservation of soil moisture; all important factors in crop production.

(c) Relation of manurial treatment to physical condition of soils. (d) Flocculation, sedimentation, and erosion of soils.

(e) Retention and conservation of fertilizer ingredients by soils.

(f) Relation of physical condition to temperature of soils. The object of this work is to study the temperature coefficient of different soils and their capacity to absorb and transmit heat and the effect thereon of insufficient drainage, improper aeration, packing, and texture. The relation of soils to heat and the modification of this relation by cultural methods has an important bearing upon the development of crops and even crop adaptation.

Chemical investigations, including:

(a) Nitrogen-carrying fertilizers.

(b) Chemical properties and components of humus. The object of this work is to investigate the character and nature of the organic components of the various soil types, with a view to conserving and increasing the amount of humus under different cultural treatments, and with a view to modifying the character of the decomposition of organic matter to produce the most favorable conditions for crop production.

(c) Solubility of soil minerals.

(d) Iron compounds of soil, investigation of.

(e) Chemical ingredients of organic manures. The work has for its object the investigation of the organic compounds of manures, and of their separation, identification, and properties.

(f) Methods of analysis. The investigation of new methods of analysis, made necessary by more advanced investigations of soil properties, and of routine methods.

(g) Field demonstrations. The object of this work is to demonstrate certain laboratory results in the field.

(h) Chemical properties of alkali soils. This is a continuation of the work necessary for improvement of alkali soils.

Soil erosion.

The object of this investigation, which was started in the spring of 1907, is briefly given on the opposite side of this sheet. It is, in effect, to study the reasons of and remedies for one of the most important causes of the loss of soil fertility. To it may be charged the wasting of wide areas of the arable soils of the United States, and the evil does not end there, for the products of erosion prove a source of menace to, and interference with, the navigation of the waterways of the country. Desultory efforts have been made, through various methods of treatment, to conserve the soils and prevent this waste, but it is now proposed that a systematic study should be made of different soils and of practical methods of preventing their bodily removal from the fields.

No. 15.—Southern field crop insect investigations:

A special emergency appropriation for the cotton boll weevil covers a large part of the work under this section, as does the investigation of the insects under way in the tobacco belts of Tennessee and Kentucky. Project No. 12 also touches upon this same field. But there are insect enemies of other southern staple crops which need investigation, notably of sugar cane and rice. A certain amount of work has been done with these insects incidental to other investigations, and it is proposed thoroughly to study such pests of considerable importance as the sugar-cane borer, the sugar-cane rootworm, the water weevil of the rice crop, and others. Insects affecting tobacco in other parts of the South also come under this head, and with the widespread movement toward further diversification of crops in the South it is safe to predict that the changing of nature's balance will bring forward other insect injuries demanding investigation..... 5,000.00

No. 16. Hydrocyanic-acid gas investigations:

Hydrocyanic-acid gas has been the chief means of controlling the principal scale insects of citrus fruit trees in California for many years. A large percentage of the commercial orchards in the State are fumigated every year, at a cost ranging from 25 cents to $1.50 a tree, or a total annual expenditure of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, on the basis of the fumigation of 50 per cent of the trees every year. It becomes, therefore, a matter of very great importance to conduct the operation of fumigation in the most effective and economical manner. The work being done by the Bureau on this subject in California is aimed to thoroughly standardize the process, and was undertaken in response to urgent demands from the horticultural commissioners of the principal fruit-producing counties of California and of many prominent growers. The investigation will cover the following subjects:

(1) Dosage, or the amount of gas necessary for different purposes. The strength of gas necessary to effectively control the three prominent scale pests of citrus trees in California—namely, the red scale, the purple scale, and the black scale—will be determined under different conditions of location in the drier foothills regions, and the moister coastal strip for different seasons of the year and for the different seasonal conditions of the tree, as whether in fresh leafage or bloom or different stages of the growing fruit.

(2) Physiological effect on the tree and fruit. There is evidence to show that the gas has a distinct stimulating effect on the tree. The facts in this connection will be determined in the course of the experimental work.

(3) Mechanical equipment. An important economical consideration in gassing is the employment of the most suitable tent cloths, and their treatment to give durability and imperviousness; also the best mechanical means of hoisting tents over the trees. To be determined under this heading also are the most economical methods of generating the gas and an indication of the quality of chemicals best suited for the purpose.

In connection with this experimental work the scale species themselves will be given a careful study in the field to determine their exact life history as a basis for the intelligent application of the remedy... $6,000.00

No. 17. Investigation of insects affecting drying or dried fruits:
Packers and canners, especially on the Pacific coast, have attached much importance to the influence of sulphur fumes in preventing attack from destructive insects infesting drying and dried fruits. The recent restriction of the Bureau of Chemistry of this Department, on the amount of sulphur permissible in such products, has made necessary a thorough investigation of the subject to determine the exact influence of sulphuring on insect attack, while the fruit is drying and in storage, and to determine how infestation may be best avoided. A large number of samples of various classes of fruits have been collected both from drying trays, out-of-doors, and from bins where the fruit is stored, so that any possible insects infesting same might be bred out. A considerable series of insects have been thus secured, and a study is being made of the life history and habits of same, as indicating how best to avoid infestation. Experiments are necessary another season to determine what methods should best be adopted to prevent attack in field and what should be done to keep storage houses free from them..... 2,500.00

No. 18. Investigation of insects affecting tobacco:
The investigation of insects affecting tobacco was begun in July, 1907. The work has been confined to that part of the dark tobacco belt known as the Clarksville and Hopkinsville district, which comprises 14 counties. Experiments during the season have led to the recommendation of a new method of applying arsenites to tobacco—that is, to the under side of the leaves. When applied in this manner they remain longer upon the plant and are not so easily washed off or into the axils of the leaves as when applied to the upper side of the leaves. When applied to the upper side of the leaves the arsenites are frequently collected by the rain into the axils of the leaves, where they cause a burning and sloughing off of the leaves.
Upon 35 to 40 per cent of the acreage of tobacco—that is, forty to fifty thousand acres—tobacco worms are hand-picked, at a cost of $10 to $12 per acre. Poisoning is just as effective, often more so, and costs not more than $2 per acre. Cooperative experiments by demonstrating the proper method of applying poisons would save to the growers $350,000 to $400,000 yearly. Over the entire belt there is need of demonstrations of the proper methods of applying poisons at the different stages of the plant's growth.
The total loss to the growers for the season of 1908 may be summed up as follows: A 25 per cent shortage in crop, due to injury to seed beds by the flea-beetle, loss about $2,000,000; loss due to the tobacco worm, $800,000 to $1,000,000; loss due to hand picking, $350,000 to $400,000; total, $3,150,000 to $3,400,000.
A large percentage of the larvæ that pupate for the winter mature upon tobacco just before it is cut or upon the suckers which quickly spring up from the stubble. It is recommended, therefore, that tobacco land be plowed immediately after a crop is cut to prevent the growth of suckers and to kill the worms that have pupated.

No. 18. Investigation of insects affecting tobacco—Cont'd.
Life history studies upon the different insects affecting the crop were begun, but it was impossible to complete them because the investigation was instituted so late in the season. This work should begin early in the spring of 1908 and continue throughout the year. Cooperate insecticide work should be done in in every county in the Clarksville and Hopkinsville district and in as many of the other 52 counties of the dark belt as is possible. Demonstration of fall cultural methods should be continued..... $2,500.00

No. 19. Insect inspection work:
The Department of Agriculture has become perhaps the largest importing agency in the United States for new plants and seeds. Much of this material comes from the quarters of the world which have never been explored entomologically and with which there has been very little exchange of plant material. All of this material is likely to harbor new insect pests, the introduction of which into the United States might work enormous losses to the existing fruit and other cultures. All such material is therefore most carefully inspected and thoroughly fumigated, and when ever any of it is infested with new enemies, the destruction of which can not be assured, it is destroyed outright. During the past year nearly a thousand lots of imported plants were inspected for injurious insects, the largest one of these containing over 5,000 plants. Many of these lots have been fumigated and others have been destroyed and all were given most careful examination. In the course of this work some pests which threatened to be very important and dangerous have been detected and destroyed.
Inspection is also made, by request of local nurserymen, of all material shipped from the District of Columbia to adjoining States, as owing to the laws of these States, no material can pass their borders without a certificate of inspection. There is no law requiring such inspection by the Department authorities, and it is extended as a necesseary courtesy, since without it the local dealer would be practically limited to sales within the District. Comparatively little time, however, is required for this feature of the work, but the general inspection work of the Bureau and the necessary examinations and studies of imported material which go with it occupy the larger portion of the time of 2 expert assistants..... 2,000.00

A disease, supposed to be the deadly grouse disease of Europe, has appeared in this country and is already causing great losses among some of our native game birds, and threatens their entire destruction. For this reason an early investigation of the extent of its distribution and of its effect should be made with a view to methods of prevention. This will require work in cooperation with the Bureau of Animal Industry, during several seasons.

Crop report.

Sources of information.

Special field agents: In addition to the 2 men provided for in the appropriation for the fiscal year 1908 and now on duty, it is desired to add 3 men to this service to be assigned to territories that can not receive proper attention from the force at present available. Cost of maintenance... $68,800.00

State statistical agents: In addition to the agent appointed under the appropriation for 1908, it is desired to add an additional man, to be assigned to the State of Florida. The benefits of increased travel on the part of State agents during the past year were so noticeable that it is desired to allot a larger sum to this purpose. Cost of maintenance..... 34,800.00

County correspondents, about 2,900, who report to the Bureau from each county, basing their figures on personal observation, inquiry, and reports from assistants located throughout their respective counties.

No material compensation for the services of these correspondents, other than Department publications and seeds.

Township correspondents about 50 000 in all, an average of about 10 to each county, who report to the Bureau the conditions in their respective localities.

No compensation, except by means of Department publications and seeds.

All the above-mentioned classes of correspondents report monthly, giving information appropriate to the season concerning the agricultural products within their respective limits.

In addition to the above regular lists of correspondents there are the following:

Individual representative farmers who report once a year upon grain, in answer to questions as to yield upon their individual farms, and twice a year from the cotton States—in the spring to the question of acreage and in the fall to the question of yield upon their individual farms.

Bankers, merchants, etc., reporting twice a year to the question of acreage in the spring and yield in the fall of cotton.

Ginners, in the cotton States only, reporting twice a year to the question of acreage in the spring and yield in the fall of cotton.

Mills and elevators, reporting once a year to the question of yield per acre of grain.

No compensation, except publications and seeds.

Preparation.

Salaries chargeable to above appropriation..... 4,000.00

By means of an improved method of cost keeping recently inaugurated, the work performed on the crop report by employees carried on the lump-fund roll, which has heretofore been charged to administration, will be hereafter shown under the heading of "Crop report."

Publicity.

Cost of supplies, including filing cases for State agents, envelopes for correspondents' reports, proportion of stationery used in Bureau, etc..... 6,500.00

It is desired to furnish filing cases to those State agents not already supplied. The enlarging volume of the work makes the increased allotment necessary.

Freight on filing cases		$30.00
Telegraph charges		570.00
Total charges against appropriation "Collecting agricultural statistics, 1909," for crop report work		114,700.00

Executive and administrative.

Salaries in Washington, officials, clerks, messengers, laborers, watchmen, charwomen, and mechanics	$8,100.00
The increase is due to transfer to the lump-fund roll of the editorial assistant heretofore carried on the statutory roll of the Bureau.
Traveling expenses	2,000.00
The increase is desired to permit of additional travel. The small expenditure under this heading in 1907 was due to the fact that the Bureau's officials had but a limited amount of time to devote to this duty during that period.
Supplies, stationery, furniture, lumber, paints, hardware, etc	1,000.00
Telephone and express charges	100.00
Total amount for executive and administrative purposes chargeable to appropriation "Collecting Agricultural Statistics, 1909"		11,200.00

Bulletins, Statistical Appendix, and Miscellaneous.

Bulletins.

It is not possible at this time to give a list of the bulletins that will be published in 1909, because they are prepared and issued as rapidly as the need for them becomes apparent and the force to handle them is available.

While the bulk of the work in preparing these publications is done by the regular force when not engaged on crop-report work, the special work in assembling the data and supervising the preparation must be done by statistical experts, viz, the officials of the Bureau and men of special training and ability who are paid on the lump-fund roll under this appropriation.

The Statistical Appendix.

The method of its preparation is the same as stated above in the case of bulletins.

Miscellaneous.

The Crop Reporter, special statistical statements, etc., are prepared in the same manner as bulletins.

REMARKS.

The library appropriation for 1909 will be spent in the purchase of agricultural, scientific, and technical books and periodicals and reference works needed in connection with the work of the Department. In addition a small part will be spent in the purchase of library fixtures; miscellaneous library supplies, such as card cabinets, filing cases, and catalogue cards, and for traveling expenses.

An increase of $5,000 is submitted to meet the increased demands of the Department. During the past few years the Department has grown rapidly, and the appropriation for books has not increased proportionately; furthermore by the centralization in the library of the purchase of all books for the Department in Washington the necessity for a larger appropriation is made still more pressing, since it is called upon to meet expenses heretofore provided by other appropriations.

PROJECTS.

The following are the more important projects proposed to be conducted by the Office of Public Road Inquiries under above appropriation:

No. 1. Object-lesson roads—Mr. Vernon M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:
Salaries	$15,500.00
Traveling expenses	2,300.00
Freight and drayage	2,000.00
Lease of rollers	855.00
Miscellaneous	345.00
		$21,000.00
No. 2. Instruction in highway engineering—Dr. A. S. Cushman, assistant director, and Mr. Vernon M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:
Salaries, 11 engineer students, at $600	6,600.00
		11,600.00

The purpose of this project is, first, to build up a corps of trained highway engineers for the Government service and, second, to increase the supply of competent highway engineers for State and county work. The remarkable success of the French road system is largely due to the fact that the Government maintains a school of roads and bridges from the graduates of which their corps of highway engineers is recruited. A small number of graduates in engineering are appointed each year, after competitive examination, to the position of civil engineer student in this Office at a salary of $50 per month and field expenses. These young men are given practical training in all branches of road work and at the expiration of one year are promoted and retained in the service, or given a certificate showing completion of the graduate course. The Government receives a full return for the expense incurred, as the services of these young men are valuable from the outset. Only 15 students have been appointed to the present time, but the results have been so encouraging that an increase of $6,600 has been requested for this project, which will enable us to appoint 11 students. This instruction is being supplemented by cooperation with colleges in lecture work and the preparation of courses of study.

No. 3. Testing road materials—Dr. A. S. Cushman, assistant director, in charge:

Salaries	$4,500.00
Supplies and miscellaneous expenses	800.00
		$5,300.00

No. 4. Road mileage, revenues, and expenditures. This project has been completed.

No. 5. Lectures, addresses, and papers—Mr. L. W. Page, director, in charge:

Salaries	2,200.00
Traveling expenses	2,000.00
		4,200.00

No increase has been requested over the allotment for the current fiscal year.

No. 6. Special advice and inspection—Dr. A. S. Cushman, assistant director, and Mr. Vernon M. Peirce, Chief Engineer, in charge:

Salaries	1,800.00
Traveling expenses	1,000.00
		2,800.00

No increase has been requested over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year.

No. 7. Investigation of dust preventives—Mr. L. W. Page, director, in charge:

Salaries	$3,200.00
Traveling expenses	1,300.00
Materials and miscellaneous expenses	3,600.00
		8,100.00

In recent years perhaps the most important, and certainly the most difficult, problem which has engaged the attention of highway engineers is that of dust prevention, or rather the preservation of our macadam roads from the destructive effects of modern traffic. So destructive to macadam roads has been the automobile traffic that the minister of public works of France, according to report, has been authorized to call an international convention in 1908 for the purpose of considering methods to prevent roads from being damaged by this traffic. The existence of our macadam roads depends upon the retention of the rock dust formed by the wearing of the surface. Under ordinary traffic conditions this dust remains on the road and consolidates when moist to form a fresh wearing surface. Heavy automobiles moving at a high rate of speed subject the surface of the road to an immense tractive force, which throws a large amount of dust into the air to be carried off by the wind. This action strips the macadam road of all fine material, the result being rapid disintegration. Investigations have been conducted with a view to treating the road surface so as to minimize the formation of dust, retain the original bond of the road, and to supply a thin wearing surface which will resist the disintegrating effect of the automobile. Investigations have been made of the systems in use in France and England, and experiments have been conducted with oil and tar, and various preparations, in Kentucky and Massachusetts during the past season. This is a subject which should engage the earnest attention of the National Government at once. No matter how important we may deem the building of hard roads, we can not but consider it even more important to preserve those which have already been built. Accordingly, about 20 per cent of the increase recommended is desired for this work.

No. 8. Inspection of rural delivery roads—Mr. V. M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:

Salaries	$600.00
Traveling expenses	400.00
		$1,000.00

No increase has been requested over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year.

No. 9. Standardization of tests—Mr. L. W. Page, Director, in charge:

No increase has been requested over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year.

No. 10. Introduction of model systems—Mr. L. W. Page, director, and Mr. V. M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:

Salaries	$4,200.00
Traveling expenses	800.00
		5,000.00

Under this project engineers are assigned upon the request of local authorities to investigate the entire road system of a county, its road materials, organization, methods of administration, construction and maintenance, and to prepare a report and working plan with estimates, based upon actual surveys and inspection. An investigation was completed in Santa Barbara County, California, during the past year and somewhat similar work was done in MacDowell County, W. Va. This project is of such unquestioned practical value as to justify a considerable extension. An increase has therefore been requested of $4,400 over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year.

No. 11. Investigation of road materials in the several States—Mr. L. W. Page, director, in charge:

Traveling expenses	1,000.00
		3,000.00

The appropriation bill provides specifically for an investigation of road materials in the several States. The project is one of too great magnitude to be undertaken by the Office alone with its present appropriation, but it has been determined to cooperate as fully as possible with the highway commissions and geological surveys of the various States, the data to be published in a series of bulletins. During the past year such an investigation was begun in Minnesota in cooperation with the State highway engineer. It is hoped to secure accurate information as to the location, character, quantity, and quality of all road materials, probable cost of making the material available, feasibility of establishing State or county quarries, etc. It is manifestly impossible to conduct this exceedingly important investigation without an increase in the amount available. Accordingly the estimate for 1909 carries an increase of $2,000.

No. 12. Introduction of sand-clay and burnt-clay roads—Mr. V. M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:

Salaries	$3,000.00
Traveling expenses	800.00
	$3,800.00

Sand-clay roads can be constructed at very moderate cost in many sections of the country, while in the Mississippi delta the results of burnt-clay experiments are most promising. These roads, when properly constructed, frequently serve the purpose for which they are intended nearly as well as stone roads, and in view of the low cost of constructing such roads and the abundance of sand and clay available, every effort should be made to introduce these forms of construction wherever practicable. The increase requested for this project is $3,800.

No. 13. Investigation of systems of road management and accounting—Mr. J. E. Pennybacker, jr., chief of records, in charge:

Salaries	$1,500.00
Traveling expenses	850.00
	2,350.00

The appropriation bill provides for the investigation of systems of road management in the several States. This project will be taken up during the current fiscal year and continued with a view to obtaining definite information concerning every phase of road management and accounting in the United States. This information will be used as a basis for preparing bulletins setting forth the evils to be remedied and suggesting needed changes in the systems. Systems of accounting adapted to the needs of counties and townships will be suggested through the medium of bulletins. The increase for this project over the allottment for the current fiscal year is $2,100.

No. 14. Split-log drag—Mr. Vernon M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:

Salaries	$1,800.00
Traveling expenses	800.00
	2,600.00

The maintenance of earth roads is of immediate importance, and the split-log drag is a certain and inexpensive means of improving an earth road under average conditions. The split-log drag can be easily constructed and operated, and the purpose of this project is simply to introduce it throughout the country. An increase of $2,000 over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year is recommended.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC ROADS—Continued.

No. 15. Experiments with oils on natural soils—
L. W. Page, director, in charge:

Salaries	$1,000.00
Traveling expenses	500.00
Materials, supplies, etc	300.00
		$1,800.00

In many cases macadam roads are impracticable owing to lack of hard materials and peculiar climatic conditions. It is the purpose of this investigation to determine whether oil can be used to advantage on the natural soil. If a method of construction on this basis can be developed, it will be of great value in the sections of country producing oil with an asphalt base. The increase over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year is $1,400.

No. 16. Investigation of slag as a road material—
Mr. V. M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge:

Salaries	$600.00
Traveling expenses	500.00
Materials, supplies, etc	460.00
		1,560.00

Considering the scarcity of road materials in many sections of the country and the inferior quality of materials which are frequently used, it is believed that a thorough investigation and test of furnace slag is justified. The increase over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year is $1,360.

No. 17. Corrosion of iron and steel—Dr. A. S. Cushman, assistant director, in charge:

Salaries	$800.00
Purchase of samples for service tests	400.00
Labor in handling and treating samples	500.00
Traveling expenses	600.00
Purchase of materials to be used in experiments on the preservation of boilers	200.00
Purchase of various types of iron and steel culverts for service tests	300.00
		2,800.00

This investigation is designed to ascertain the causes for the corrosion of iron and steel, and has been remarkably successful. It has been demonstrated that the generally accepted theories regarding the oxidation of iron and steel are incorrect. Under certain circumstances strong oxidizing agents can be used to prevent rust. Following Doctor Cushman's suggestions, the leading manufacturers are making efforts to turn out steel that will be highly resistant to corrosion. The importance of this work can not be overestimated. The increase recommended over the amount allotted for the current fiscal year is $2,000.

No. 18. Classification of road material—Dr. E. C. E. Lord, petrographer, in charge:

Salaries	600.00

No increase has been requested.

No. 19. Cooperation with Forest Service—Mr. V. M. Peirce, chief engineer, in charge. (This project has been completed.)

Salaries $800.00
Preparation of maps, purchase of materials, etc..... 900.00
1,700.00
Under this project maps and bulletins will be prepared giving useful information regarding the principally traveled wagon roads throughout the United States, classified according to conditions and character of construction. The increase in this project is provided for by funds arising from completion of other projects.

No. 29. Cooperation with newspapers in the publication of practical articles on road construction, maintenance, and administration—Mr. J. E. Pennybacker, jr., Chief of Records, in charge:
Salaries..... 800.00
This project involves the preparation of articles by engineers and experts of this Office to be sent out on a mailing list composed of papers which have agreed to publish the articles. The increase in this project is provided for by funds arising from completion of other projects.
